2023: The year in review

By The Times Staff

The past year was an eventful one for many in the city, including further recovery by local businesses after the major threat posed by COVID-19 had been substantially quelled and life moved forward more normally as the weeks and months passed.

Somerville's new mayor, Katjana Ballantyne, settled in her job for another year as the city's chief administrator and held the reins steadily as she took on the issues of interest for the city.

Redevelopment and new construction projects played an important role in shaping events throughout 2023. The Somerville Redevelopment Authority (SRA) reviewed the Request for Qualifications (RFQ) draft to go forward with the redevelopment plans for 90 Washington Street at its December 21, 2022 meeting. Through the RFQ process, interested developers were asked to share

Museo Inmigrante: Stories of Resilience from Somerville's Padres Latinos

The photographic exhibit, Museo Inmigrante: Stories of Resilience from Somerville's Padres Latinos, will be on display at the Somerville Museum from Thursday, January 11, to Thursday, January 18.

Padres Latinos is a mutual aid group of more than 230 Spanish and Portuguese-speaking parents with children in the Somerville Public Schools (SPS).

The group formed during the COVID-19 pandemic to advocate for SPS Latino students and reduce or eliminate the achievement gap between Latino students and their peers. The group also strengthens its community by sharing information about food, education, cultural opportunities, and housing resources.

Response to: 'The Heart Sellers' - A play by Lloyd Suh

Renata Brailovsky says:

lUnfortunately child only understand 1/2 of what was being said. The play was very interesting and concerns all immigrants. Being a white Jewish immigrant having been transplanted twice it was easy to feel their loneliness. Please have the actresses speak slower so the audience does not have to guess what they are saying.

Response to: Somerville releases strategic study to help small businesses avoid commercial displacement

JM says:

With the cutback in available parking around local businesses, it makes it much more difficult for residents and former residents to support these businesses.

Response to: Somerville American with Disabilities Act Transition Plan Task Force seeks members

Disgusted says:

This is very interesting, considering I had a plied for a residential seat on the committee back in the summer time when I sent that letter. I had an interview in November and two days before Thanksgiving, I was told they would not forward my application. They said they only had two seats on the commission at that time, and would not explain to me why I was declined or whether or not people with my disclosed mental health challenges Were appropriately represented. So how can there be openings when I was told there were only two and that I don't know whether or not people with certain mental health conditions which are covered under the ADA are represented fully on this commission? It reeks of discrimination, if you ask me. I'm currently trying to follow it up with the Massachusetts disability office is to see what I can do next about this.

Winter woes

Do you think all those plastic sticks will survive a snow storm with lots of plowing? I asked my Somerville social network friends to chime in with their thoughts on the subject. Each quote is a different person.

"After the first major snowstorm, the city will look normal again no more plastic sticks, till the administration spends about 100 thousand to replace them all."

"The city thinks it is made of money. Each of those poles are $40. and they replace them making the producer of them a fortune. Probably a friend or family of the current administration. Spend the money on the potholes instead of these useless poles."

"The question should be, "Do you re- ing out the plastic sticks.

Do you think all ally think plow drivers care about those those plastic sticks plastic strips?"

"And, if you hit those plastic poles, they will certainly cause damage to your car!"

"I hope not! And what about the stupid speed "humps"? How do the plows get over those?" (they will have to go very slowly)

"I believe the present, some of all administration is trying to make it impossible to drive around the city. Between the speed bumps, which are ridiculous and the white poles everywhere, and the fact that Broadway is now one lane that takes forever to get through."

"They are trying to stop cars from driving. Well, I'm an old lady. I can't do anything but drive. I certainly can't ride a bicycle."

Let's hope we have a mild winter and won't have to worry about snowplows wiping out the plastic sticks.

COMMENTARY

SIGNS OF THE TIMES

Illustrated by Jim Clark

Have a happy and healthy New Year, Somerville!

Our View Of The Times

Looking back on the year just passed is an interesting thing to do. Sometimes sobering, at other times amusing, yet always somewhat inspiring if one considers what has been accomplished and what else is left to be done.

The advance of progress and renewal marches on as we in turn continue the pursuit of our individual hope and dreams.

Observing and participating in the machinations of political goings on, even at the lowest level, is something of a civic duty that we all should share a sense of responsibility for. It's what makes democracy great, that every man and woman can make a difference in what transpires, mainly when they express their viewpoints at the polls.

Looking ahead to what may come in 2024, we can't help but feel optimistic about the days to come. It will take some hard work and serious planning, but an improving economy is within sight, as is better civic infrastructure, community resources, and a plethora of other important quality of life issues.

As always, it's up to us to push things in the right direction. To send the proper signals to our city officials. To back them up when they get it right, and to call them on it when they seem to go astray. They have their duties and we have ours. Let each one carry on in the best fashion possible.

It is the way of our community. We enjoy a uniquely favorable reputation as those who can.

We wish each and every one of our readers the best in the year to come. May peace, prosperity, and good health bless you and yours.

Happy Birthday to Kevin O'Donovan. We wish him a great birthday. Happy birthday to everyone here and from the city who is celebrating this week. We wish all our Facebook friends, such as Jon Curtis, Jimmy Deoliveira, Marie Miele, Matthew Martino, Gale Mahan, Steven Anthony, George Allen and Linda M. Alves a very happy birthday. We hope everyone has a great day. To all the others we may have missed, we sincerely wish them the very best of birthdays.

The mayor's Office of Strategic Planning and Community Development is working to update the city's Open Space and Recreation Plan (OSRP). This plan will guide the next seven years of city work on parks, sports fields, open space, conservation land, and recreational programming, and it needs your input. Attend an upcoming in-person or virtual community meeting to share your thoughts on open space. First up is on Wednesday, January 10, at Somerville Public Library West Branch (40 College Ave.) from 6:30 to 8:00 p.m. Give feedback now through the OSRP survey or visit the project page https://voice.somervillema.gov/open-space-and-recreation-plan-update to learn more.

Registration for Winter Swim Lessons will begin on January 8 at 10:00 a.m. for Somerville residents and on January 15 at 10:00 a.m. for non-Somerville residents. For more information contact the Assistant Pool Manager: agalanek@somervillema.gov.

On Tuesday, January 9, at 6:30 p.m., at Arts at the Armory, 191 Highland Ave, company members from Music From the Sole will lead a community music (body percussion) and movement workshop. Music From The Sole is a tap dance and live music company celebrating tap's connections to Afro Brazilian music and dance, and other influences across the African Diaspora, with connections to house, samba, Brazilian funk and jazz. No dance experience required. Open to all ages, and Admission is free (no tap shoes, sneakers fine). Pre-registration required, register here: https://donate2.app/9B67Xn

MBTA changes in January

Following the successful completion of recent work along the Green Line D branch, the MBTA announced service changes in January on the Green Line to give MBTA riders a smoother, faster, more reliable trip.

Here are local changes, for a complete list of changes visit MBTA.com:

Green Line trains on both Green Line Extension (GLX) branches between North Station and Union Square Station as well as Medford/Tufts station will be suspended during the periods listed below. This service change is in place while crews from GLXC, the design-build contractor, continue critical track work that alleviates current tight gauge conditions.

From start to end of service during the weekend of January 6-7;

- Beginning at approximately 8:45 p.m. through the end of service every day from January 8-11;
- Beginning at approximately 8:45 p.m. through the end of service every day from January 16-18;
- From start to end of service during the weekend of January 20-21;
- Beginning at approximately 8:45 p.m. through the end of service every day from January 22-25.
- Accessible shuttle bus service will replace trains between North Station and Medford/Tufts station.

Train service between Lechmere and Union Square Stations will be suspended. Green Line Union Square branch riders are instead encouraged to consider alternative routes, including the 86, 91, and CT2 bus routes between Union Square and East Somerville Station on the Medford Branch. These bus routes also travel to Sullivan Square Station on the Orange Line. In addition, Route 87 travels between Union Square and Lechmere Station.

During this service change and through close collaboration with the MBTA, MassDOT will also minimize impacts to the public by performing bridge inspection work during this outage in service.

Riders can find more information on service changes through in-station signage, in-station public announcements, and at mbta.com/alerts. Transit Ambassadors and MBTA staff will be available on-site to offer information and assistance during these service changes. Riders are encouraged to subscribe to T-Alerts (https://www.mbta.com/alerts/subway) or to follow the MBTA on X (the site formerly known as Twitter) @MBTA for up-to-date service information.

The MBTA previously announced service changes in December. More information is available at https://www.mbta.com/news/2023-11-16/december-service-changes-will-allow-crews-continue-improvement-work-across-mbta.

The MBTA apologizes for the inconvenience of these scheduled service changes and appreciates the understanding and patience of riders as this critical and necessary work to maintain, upgrade, and modernize the system takes place.

Stuffed Sweet Potatoes

This is a perfect dinner for a meatless Monday or any other day. This hearty and filling dish is so satisfying that you'll find yourself wanting to add it to your meal rotation. I make it every other week. It hits all the taste buds. It's sweet, it's savory, it's smoky, and has a hint of heat. It also has great texture from the vegetables and beans along with the creamy sauce.

4 sweet potatoes (medium sized)

1 tablespoons olive oil

1/4 red onion, small diced

1 celery Stalk, small diced

1 carrot, small diced

1/2 jalapeño, finely minced, or pinch of cayenne pepper

2 garlic cloves, finely minced

1 15.5 oz. can black beans, drained and rinsed

Salt and pepper

1/2 cup raw cashews

1 lemon zested and juiced 2 tablespoons nutritional yeast 1-1/2 teaspoons smoked paprika 1 teaspoon yellow mustard Salt and pepper

Preheat oven to 400°. Soak the cashews in water, enough to completely cover them and set aside. Thoroughly wash the sweet potatoes and prick with a fork before placing in the oven. They will take about an hour to an hour and fifteen minutes to roast.

In a sauté pan, add the olive oil, onion, celery, carrot, jalapeño, along with a pinch of salt and pepper. Cook vegetables for about 10 minutes. Add the garlic and sauté for about 30 seconds, then add the black beans and cook for an additional 10-15 minutes. Taste and add more salt and pepper if needed. Set aside.

Once the sweet potatoes are fully cooked and cool enough to handle, cut in half, and scoop out, leaving about 1/2" of the potato around the bottom and edges. Add the scooped sweet potato to a blender along with the cashews and liquid, zest and juice of the lemon, nutritional yeast, paprika, and mustard. Blend until smooth. You may have to add additional water to thin it out a little, but it should be thick and pourable.

Taste and season with salt and pepper. Now scoop the bean and vegetable filling evenly into the eight halves of the sweet potatoes, 2 per serving. Now pour the sauce over the sweet pota-toes and enjoy!

Makes 4 servings.

BLESSING OF THE BAY LINEAR PARK IMPROVEMENT REQUEST FOR CONSULTANTS PROPOSALS

The Mystic River Watershed Association (MyRWA), with consultation from the City of Somerville is seeking proposals from qualified land-scape architecture and engineering firms for the completion of a design that will provide linear park and shoreline improvements for Blessing of the Bay Park in Somerville.

Blessing of the Bay Park is an important open space in Somerville and part of the Mystic River Reservation— a 10 mile, 370-acre linear park system. Community feedback has revealed that this park is underutilized due to limited views and access to the river's edge, deteriorating infrastructure and a lack of amenities. The City and MyRWA have been engaging residents and making improvements to the park since 2018—and we are excited for this next phase of work—which will focus on the path, access to the water and invasive species removal.

The scope of work for the consultant consists of five Phases: Site Analysis & Schematic Design, Design Development & Construction Documents, Vegetative Management, Construction Bid Support and Negotiation, and Construction Administration. The budget for this scope of work, including all costs and contingencies, is approximately $350,000. The resulting linear park and shoreline improvements, all of which will be fully ADA-Accessible, will support open space and outdoor recreation priorities set out in the City's FY2023 Community Preservation Plan, Open Space and Recreation Plan, Urban Forest Management Plan, SomerVision 2040 Comprehensive Plan and Climate Forward Plan.

The RFP for proposal plus more information on the park can be found at https://mysticriver.org/blessingofthebay.

Electronic Proposals are invited for submission to the MyRWA by 5 PM EST on Wednesday, January 24, 2024.

Hundreds from Somerville urge Sen. Warren and Sen. Markey to call for ceasefire

Last month, our group delivered a letter signed by nearly 250 Somerville community members, to Senators Elizabeth Warren and Ed Markey demanding they call for an immediate cease-fire in Gaza, rush in humanitarian aid, end of unconditional military funding to Israel, and to hold Israel accountable to international law.

The list of signatories was interfaith, interracial, and intergenerational; included several city counselors (Willie Burnley Jr., Naima Sait, JT Scott, Jake Wilson, Charlotte Kelly, Ben Ewen-Campen, and Beatriz Gomez-Mouakad); and contained two state legislators (Sen. Pat Jehlen and Rep. Uyterhoeven). On Wednesday, January 3rd, our group will redeliver the Somerville letter now with close to 450 signatures and be joined by neighbors from Arlington letter echoing the demands. Following the delivery of the letters, we will hold a stand-out in Union Sq. at 5 pm to further raise awareness of the atrocities the Israeli military is committing against Palestinian civilians trapped in Gaza.

As we write this statement, the Israeli government's devastating assault continues. The death toll for Gazans now stands over 20,000; around half of whom are children. More children have been killed in the past two months by Israel in Gaza than attend Somerville Public Schools. Right now — more so than ever before — the need is great and urgent for an immediate (and permanent) ceasefire, humanitarian aid, the end of unconditional military aid to Israel, and accountability of the Israeli government in accordance with international law.

One can find the contents and signatories of the letter at: https://docs.google.com/document/d/1hvg6FFQvg3q-YLv-o165FN9Og0EPbbIe1E-iq5C3j7s10/edit

Given the scale and severity of the violence in Gaza right now, we feel that it is imperative for the public calls for a permanent ceasefire, immediate humanitarian aid, and the end of the U.S. government's support for Israel's actions.

their qualifications, past project experience, how they will secure financing for the project, experience promoting the participation of minorities and women, and the inclusion of minority-owned and women-owned businesses in past projects.

The public weighed in on the project, questioning several of the proposed plans for the building.

The Green Line Extension (GLX) finally opened in late 2002, with all stations becoming fully operational as the ensuing months passed by. Temporary shutdowns of certain sections of the system for repairs were a sometime vexing problem for commuters, but on the whole it ran fairly smoothly throughout most of the year.

Some controversy arose in January when the city demanded that the Somerville Media Center relocate its operations, as had been requested months earlier. Many on the City Council and in the community strongly objected to the order and voiced their disapproval of the plan in kind.

The Somerville Building Commissioner, in consultation with the Somerville Fire Chief, ordered that the City's 90-92 Union Square building close to the public on August 31 due to public safety risk.

The Somerville Media Center secured a temporary site in Somerville effective September 1, at Somernova, a 7.4-acre innovation campus and community located just outside Union Square.

In February, Mayor Katjana Ballantyne and the Department of Racial and Social Justice (RSJ) announced the launch of the RSJ Community Engagement Ambassadors program. The newly onboarded Community Ambassadors would actively work with the city to expand engagement with the Public Safety for All Initiative with the aim of building new avenues for participation and empowering community voices.

A search for a new Chief of Police for Somerville was launched after Chief David Fallon retired from the Somerville Police force in December 2020 after 21 years of service. Chief Charles Femino accepted the role of Acting Chief at that time taking on pandemic public safety emergency response duties as well as the ongoing work of the department.

Similarly, the Somerville School Committee voted to reopen the application process for a new Superintendent of Schools. The School Committee hoped to select a new Superintendent by July 2023, in advance of the new school year. The Committee ultimately selected Dr. Rubén Carmona to serve as the next Superintendent of the Somerville Public Schools. Dr. Carmona was one of four finalists who participated in site visits and public interviews during the week of March 27.

In early March, the Office of Strategic Planning and Community Development (OSPCD) hosted a public hearing on a proposed plan designed to tackle access to affordable housing in the city. The HOME Investment Partnership American Rescue Plan Program (HOME ARP) Allocation Plan was in need to be spent by April 2030.

According to figures from the meeting, $1.2 million dollars are proposed to be allocated for supportive services with the rest of the funds given to non-profit organizations designed to tackle homelessness in Somerville.

Also in March, a Home Rule petition to establish rent control to combat the rising rent costs across the city was introduced by the City Council.

In addition to the petition, there was also resounding support for the protection of Somerville tenants. Massachusetts State Rep. Mike Connolly filed the Tenant Protection Act in 2021 and said he believes tenants who are at risk of eviction are the ones who are disproportionately affected by wealth and social inequalities.

Towards the end of March, the Somerville City Council made history by passing groundbreaking non-discrimination ordinances protecting polyamorous families and relationships. The ordinances make Somerville the first city in the United States to extend explicit legal protections to polyamorous and other non-nuclear families and relationships.

A Community Safety Meeting was held to discuss the March 21 gunfire incident in Winter Hill, with cars and storefronts damaged by stray bullets in Somerville, and gun activity in Somerville in general. An overview on understanding violence-related trauma and where to find mental health resources were also be provided.

On April 11, the city announced that it has adopted a plan for a bicycle network. A public statement was released stating that after more than a year of engagement, research, and analysis, the city of had released Somerville's first-ever citywide Bicycle Network Plan.

The Plan documents Somerville's community-based vision for an 88-mile network of connected streets and paths where people of all ages and abilities will be able to bike safely and comfortably.

In 2022, the city announced its first ever Participatory Budget, an initiative that would let residents decide how it would spend $1 million of its fiscal 2023 budget. Since March 20, 2023, residents had been able to add ideas to a map on the official website, pbsomervillema.poepublic.com, or submit suggestions via telephone.

In May, the City Council's Land Use Committee, put forward an order requesting that the Director of Economic Development update the Council on the implementation of the Union Square Covenant, which includes local and veterans preference in hiring.

Also in May, mayors from Somerville, Cambridge, Lynn, and Salem joined with leaders from the City of Boston and Lt. Governor Kim Driscoll to sign the Common-Wealth Development Compact, committing to historic 25 percent Diversity, Equity, and Inclusion (DEI) evaluation criteria in public real estate development projects within their municipalities, as well as groundbreaking DEI considerations in private real estate projects.

Later in May, Mayor Katjana Ballantyne joined Greystar and Consigli to celebrate the topping out of 74M, a 17-story, 465,000 square foot purpose-built lab office building in the Assembly Square district of Somerville, which is redefining itself as a hub for research and development.

The Somerville Homeless Coalition opened a new Engagement Center in May to support Somerville's unhoused residents.

The Engagement Center has been operating with federal American Rescue Plan Act funding provided by the city. This facility, open during the day when shelters frequently are not, allows clients to drop in on an as-needed basis and also enables Homeless Coalition staff to invite unsheltered clients to meet privately indoors.

In June, Somerville Schools officials and city administrators began looking for ways to safely and efficiently reassign students at Winter Hill Community School to alternative classrooms to finish out the school year after a piece of concrete fell onto a stairwell inside of the school last week.

While no one was inside the building at the time of the incident, the alarming event became a cause for immediate concern and the school was closed down permanently for the duration of the school term while structural engineering crews began the process of inspecting the building to assess the extent of the damage and deterioration present.

The Green Line Extension (GLX) Community Path opened to the public on Saturday, June 10.

In July, the City Council discussed the de-prioritization of enforcement against cyclists who view stop signs as yield signs and red lights as stop signs. It was noted that in recent months the police department had accepted a grant and was engaging in targeted enforcement with warnings and tickets to cyclists who continue to travel through red lights.

According to one council member, the federal government has concluded that the Idaho stop actually leads to increased safety and reduced injuries.

On August 1, a virtual public meeting was held to discuss the future of the historic Somerville Armory building. The Somerville Arts Council members were present to discuss the different approaches to the future of the historic building's management. They said that creating a sense of belonging is essential for the artists currently involved in the space, and that for visitors the space needs to be inviting and inspiring. The Arts Council stated that the city currently owns the Armory and plans to remain the owner.

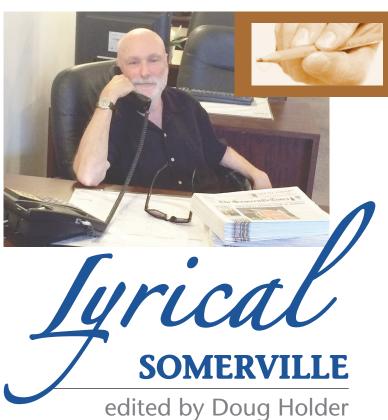

Also in August, parents of students attending the summer session at the Edgerly Education Center were notified that classes would end three days early due to disruptions caused by construction crews working in and around the building. The school had been undergoing renovations in preparation of accepting students from Winter Hill Community Innovation School in the fall.

Somerville City Council members requested that the mayor declare homelessness a public state of emergency at the Somerville City Council meeting on August 24.

In October, a federal jury in Boston convicted Sean O'Donovan of two counts of honest services wire fraud and one count of bribery concerning programs receiving federal funds.

The citywide election for the City of Somerville took place on November 7. A number of City Council seats were contested, along with a challenge for the Office of Mayor. In the race for mayor, incumbent Katjana Ballantyne prevailed to win her second term.

2023 was a year characterized by the usual accomplishments and controversies that are to be expected in this dynamic City of Somerville. May 2024 bring even more of the best that the city has to offer.

Something To Be Done

Now I see your back gate swinging, recycling piling up by the side door,

pale lights flickering behind the blinds at all hours, children absent from the gang playing at the corner, instead walking straight from school past my house to yours and disappearing behind the click of a locked front door. The dog is gone, your cat on my front porch, crying to be fed.

Your mother pulled out of your driveway with a twisted red face. We have all stopped knocking, don't call, have ceased inviting you and yours to cook outs since the day you sat at a picnic table

during the block party and picked your skin, bummed cigarettes though no one smokes,

your daughter's eyes wary, judging the distance between her and the next person waiting for a hot dog, yours the house on the block we're all aware of, waiting for consequences to catch up, something to be done, for the other shoe to fall.

Somerville: Mysteries of the Grand Union Flag

By J. L. Bell: Correspondent for Off the Shelf

The raising of the "Grand Union Flag" on Prospect Hill in January 1776 is a proud historic moment for Somerville. But a lot of mysteries still surround

The standard story is that after the Continental Congress established a navy in October 1775, it also approved a flag for that navy. Under the rules of war, a ship had to fly its country's flag as it went into battle (though it could maneuver under a "false flag" until that moment). Some American warships were sailing under banners produced by individual states, but the Congress's fleet needed its own ensign.

The design provided for the Continental Navy had the Union Jack in the upper left corner with thirteen red and white stripes below. Ships in the Chesapeake Bay flew this emblem by December. Britain's Royal Navy fought under a similar flag: a Union Jack over a solid red field.

Meanwhile, up in Massachusetts, most Continental Army soldiers' enlistments were running out. The New England men who had begun the siege of Boston in April 1775 had promised to serve only through December. Working from his headquarters in Cambridge, General George Washington oversaw a tense process of convincing some troops to reenlist, recruiting more, and reorganizing the regiments that remained.

To celebrate the relaunch of the Continental Army, Washington wrote, "we had hoisted the Union Flag in compliment to the United Colonies." This banner appeared above Prospect Hill, center of one of the besieging army's largest camps. A couple of days later, the general heard that British officials in Boston had interpreted this new flag, so like their own, "as a signal of Submission." But they soon learned the Continentals would fight on.

Here are questions about this event with no definite answers in the surviving historical records.

Who designed the new Continental Navy flag? The Congress's papers don't say. We therefore don't know what the delegates meant by authorizing a flag so similar to the British navy's banner. We can guess it symbolized how they weren't yet ready for a complete break with Britain. The thirteen stripes surely represented the thirteen colonies at that Congress, though delegates hoped to add Canada to the mix.

Was the Continental Navy flag the same as Washington's "Union Flag"? For decades, the phrase "Union flag" had referred to the British flag, symbolizing the union of England and Scotland. Washington saw his "Union Flag" as honoring the thirteen united colonies. Two British witnesses inside Boston, a ship captain and a marine officer, wrote of seeing a new "Union flag" over the Americans' camp, but they left no clear description of that banner. Most historians, but not all, conclude that this was the Continental Navy flag.

How did Washington receive the new flag? The Congress never voted to send its naval flag to its army commander. No document shows a flag being transported from Philadelphia to Cambridge. The most likely candidate for sending the banner is Joseph Reed, a Philadelphia lawyer who had been Washington's military secretary in the summer and early fall. Washington wrote to Reed on January 4 describing how the army had flown the new flag. Unfortunately, Reed's letters to Washington in this period went missing after the two men had a falling-out in late 1776.

Who reported on the new flag in the January 15 Pennsylvania Packet newspaper? A compilation of news from the Continental Army camp described how "the great Union flag was hoisted on Prospect-Hill." This is the evidence locating the flag at that site since Washington's letter and the British observations did not specify a place. However, that article also stated that event occurred on January 2, not January 1. Again, Reed seems like the best candidate for writing this report since he adapted some of the general's other letters for the newspapers. But he should have known the right date.

Did British officials really think the flag meant the rebels were ready to surrender? No source from inside Boston suggests that. Instead, the ship captain and marine officer both described the new flag as a signal of defiance. Washington said he heard about the expectations of surrender from "a person out of Boston last Night." Also on January 4, the general reported information he had recently received from "a very Intelligent Gentleman, a Mr Hutchinson from Boston" — perhaps merchant Shrimpton Hutchinson. He may have told a different story about reactions to the flag.

Is your child interested in coding? Sign them up for the library's Girls Who Code club. The club is open to grades 3-5 and is run by Girls Who Code, an international nonprofit organization with the goal of increasing the number of women in computer science. Students of any gender can participate, though we highly encourage girls, those who identify as girls, and nonbinary kids to join. This event will take place on Monday, January 8, at Somerville Public Library Central Branch (79 Highland Ave.) from 3:00 to 4:00 p.m. Learn more and register, www.somervillepubliclibrary.org.

The Fuel Assistance Program, also known as the Home Energy Assistance Program, helps low-income households pay their winter heating bills between November 1 and April 30. Renters and homeowners in Somerville are eligible to apply if they meet federal income guidelines. Learn more at somervillema.gov/ heatingassistance.

Somerville Council on Aging's Friendly Caller Program. They have many wonderful volunteers who are waiting to give you a call. Whether you are looking to make a new friend or would just like a friendly chat to look forward to every week, this program has you covered. Call Natasha Naim at 617-625-6600, ext. 2317 to learn more about the program and to sign up.

Is your teen looking to make some extra money? The city's Snow Shoveling Program is hiring youth to assist shoveling seniors and homeowners with disabilities out after snowstorms this winter. Teens and homeowners are paired for the season. After each storm, the homeowner will contact their assigned youth to request shoveling services. Somerville teens ages 14 to 19 are welcome to apply. Learn more and apply at somervillema. gov/shoveling. Looking for snow shoveling services? Contact Debby Higgins at dhiggings@somervillema.gov.

Take steps to protect yourself and loved ones against COVID-19. Somerville's Health and Human Services Department is hosting a series of COVID-19 booster (Moderna) vaccine clinics in November and throughout December at locations across the city. Vaccines are available for community members age 6 months and older. Register for a vaccine clinic at somerville-ma.gov/vaccines.

In preparation for the cold months ahead, the Somerville Homeless Coalition is in urgent need of winter clothing and apparel to keep their clients warm and safe. Donations of socks, hats, jackets, hand warmers, sweatpants, and more will go a long way towards keeping the most vulnerable clients protected against the unpredictable New England weather. All donations can be dropped off at their Engagement Center located at 1 Davis Square, Somerville between and Monday-Friday from 9:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m., closed each day from 1:00 to 2:00 p.m. for lunch. Help keep our neighbors safe this Help keep our waterways clean in your neighborhood by joining Somerville's Adopt-a-Drain program. A storm drain clear of leaves, trash or other debris allows water to flow into the catch basin sump and can prevent flooding. When you adopt a drain (or drains), you commit to caring for a local storm drain of your choice by checking on it before and after heavy rain, wind, or snow. Bonus perk: you can also give it a name. Claim your drain at somerville.mysticdrains.org.

The Center for the Arts at the Armory offers a weekly winter market with 71+ local food vendors with the best locally grown and regionally produced foods, including fresh produce, cheese, eggs, meats, fish, breads, tamales, pastries, chocolate, skincare products, and more. The market accepts SNAP/EBT and HIP benefits. They also offer a $15 SNAP match to customers each week. Visit the Somerville Winter Farmers Market on Saturdays, 9:30 a.m. - 1:30 p.m., 191 Highland Ave. Through April 6. For a list of weekly events visit www.somwintermarket.org banner "the Union Flag." The Pennsylvania Packet called it "the great Union flag," as did other newspapers reprinting the same article. So where did the present term come from? In 1852 the Philadelphia journalist Thompson Westcott wrote to the London magazine Notes and Queries with information about early American flags. Among other things, he quoted the Pennsylvania Gazette as reporting, "The grand union flag was raised on the 2nd." This was an error for the phrase that had appeared in newspapers in 1776, but the word "grand" was repeated by other magazines and eventually the flag historian George Henry Preble.

Thus, we probably owe the resonant phrase "Grand Union Flag" to a transcription error seventy-six years later.
